"But," said Count Tisza, "the entente is yet unwilling to draw the vell from this situation." The premier made a sharp distinction between subjective and objective pre-condition for peace negotiations, saying:

"The objective pre-conditions to peace negotiations, which long have been existant for the Central powers have undoubtedly been strengthened during recent months. The final event which we could desire to hanpen before embarking on peace no tiations is now occurring-the sion of the Italians from Austrian soil

"An improvement in the objective premises is also registered in the enemy camp, where there is no longer talk of smashing up Germany and of the partition of Austria-Hungary. The latest declarations of Grey (British foreign secretary) and Poincare (president of France) indicate, how ever that subjective pre-conditions of peace exist, although I fail to see whereon our enemy still base their hopes.
